

Microsoft Wireless Optical Desktop Pro

Reviewed by Theodore Fields, ORPCUG

The Microsoft Wireless Optical Desktop Pro (pictured above) would make an excellent gift for those who like the ease and flexibility of working with wireless components. Although the ergonomics keyboard is not for those of us who feel more comfortable with the traditional keyboard, it is an excellent choice for those who like to keep up with the latest technology. The two-tone is stylish, and the bounce-back of the keys during typing feels comfortable

Equipped with Tilt Wheel Technology, the accompanying IntelliMouse streamlines up-and-down as well as side-to-side scrolling. If you work with spreadsheets all day, the mouse's easy horizontal scrolling can be a real advantage. And the Desktop Pro is equipped with back/forward Web navigation buttons.

The Microsoft Wireless Optical Pro is simple to setup. Plugging the receptor into a USB port and installing the software takes about ten minutes. Batteries are included.

Prices range from $ 35.00 - $80.00. Most of the sites that I visited have them in stock, and their prices usually run from $75.00 to $80.00.
